YUKON JUDICIAL COUNCIL

ANNUAL REPORT

2025

Executive Summary

The mandate of the Yukon Judicial Council (the “Council”) is set out in s. 31 of the Territorial Court Act. These functions include:

- (a) the making of recommendations for the appointment of Judges and Deputy Judges, and Justices of the Peace, and
- (b) judicial conduct complaints and discipline.

As well, the Council has authority to make recommendations in the areas of judicial education and improvement of the court system.

Pursuant to Council’s recommendations to the Minister in 2025, one Territorial Court Judge was appointed, four Deputy Judges were appointed, and three Deputy Judges were re-appointed. There was one Justice of the Peace appointed.

Two Council appointment terms expired, and one was renewed. The second appointment remains outstanding.

There were no complaints made to the Council in 2025.

Introduction

The Council is a body created by statute, originally in the Territorial Court Act of 1985 and continued under the present Territorial Court Act, R.S.Y. 2002, c. 217, hereinafter referred to as the “Act”. Section 31 of the Act sets out the functions of the Council:

31. The functions of the Council are:

- (a) to make recommendations to the Minister respecting appointments of Judges and Justices;
- (b) subject to Part 5, to deal with complaints respecting Judges and Justices;

- (c) to make recommendations to the Minister and the Chief Judge on such matters as it considers necessary respecting the efficiency, uniformity or quality of judicial services;
- (d) to report to the Minister and the Chief Judge respecting proposals for improving the judicial services of the court or on such other matters as may be referred to it by the Minister;
- (e) after consulting with the Chief Judge and the Minister, to consider and recommend such judicial training as in its opinion may reasonably be necessary;
- (f) to serve in an educational capacity, in any manner it sees fit;
- (g) for the better consideration of justice issues of concern to the community, to establish working committees to consider reform and improvements in the areas of family and young offenders matters and criminal, and civil laws, and to make recommendations on these areas to the Council. The membership of these committees shall be in the discretion of the Council, but the Council shall attempt to include representatives of all interested groups on these committees;
- (h) at the request of the Supervising Judge, to consider whether a change of residence or occupation of a Justice merits the dismissal of the Justice;
- (i) at the request of the Supervising Judge, to assess whether or not Justices have satisfactorily completed training opportunities offered by the court or whether or not Justices have engaged in behaviour inconsistent with the due administration of justice and, where it considers advisable, to refer its concerns about a Justice to a tribunal; and
- (j) to perform such other duties as may be requested to perform by the Minister or the Chief Judge.

The Council consists of up to nine people representing the general public, the legal profession, Yukon First Nations, the Judiciary, and the Justices of the Peace. The statutory provision for the composition of the Council is contained in section 32 of the Act. It provides that the Commissioner in Executive Council shall appoint the Council from:

- (1) (a) two members nominated by the Minister, one of whom shall be a member of the Law Society of Yukon and the other shall be a lay person;

- (b) two members nominated by Yukon First Nations, at least one of whom shall be a lay person;
 - (c) one member nominated by the Law Society of Yukon;
 - (d) one member nominated by the Chief Judge;
 - (e) one member nominated by Justices; and
 - (f) a Resident Judge of the Supreme Court nominated by the Chief Justice who may, ex officio, participate in the affairs of the Council, on matters other than complaints and discipline.
- (2) The Council may recommend the appointment of one further lay member who shall, insofar as it is reasonably possible after considering the existing membership, ensure that the Council reflects the demographics and diversity of Yukon.

The Council selects a chair from its members and where the chair is for any reason unable to act, the other members of the Council choose a member to act in their absence. Chief Judge John Phelps was the chair of the Council.

The Council operates by consensus whenever possible, however, should it prove necessary, the Act provides that the Council is to make its decisions by majority vote and where in a proceeding before Council there is no majority decision, the chair casts a second and deciding vote.

The members of the Council in 2025 were:

- Benjamin Bruce Warnsby, nominated by Yukon First Nations;
- Gordon Coffin, nominated by the Justice of the Peace Association;
- Christine Lambert, nominated by the Minister, expired on November 15, 2025;
- Kelly Labine, nominated by the Law Society of Yukon;
- Katherine Mercier, nominated by the Minister;
- Chief Judge Phelps, nominated by the Territorial Court of Yukon;
- Justice Wenckebach (ex officio), nominated by the Supreme Court of Yukon;
- Gordon Reed, nominated by Yukon First Nations.

Territorial Court Judicial Appointments

One of the major functions of the Council is assessing applications for the positions of Territorial Court Judge, Deputy Territorial Court Judge and Justice of the Peace.

Judges and Justices of the Peace are appointed by the Commissioner in Executive Council on the recommendation of the Minister of Justice.

When a resident Judge is to be appointed, the Council must advertise the position in the Yukon newspapers and, if it considers it advisable, in other regional and national newspapers. The Council also gives notice of the position to the membership of the Yukon Law Society and, as it considers advisable, to other potential candidates. The Council is required to submit a list of not less than three and not more than eight qualified candidates to the Minister of Justice. The Minister recommends the appointment of a candidate from this list.

Applicants first complete an application form¹ and return it to the Council. The Council reviews all applications and will consider information from a number of sources that have familiarity with the candidate. The Council also interviews members of the legal community, and the judiciary in the candidate's home jurisdiction, regarding the reputation and suitability of the applicant. Council then decides whether it will interview a candidate. Following this process, Council submits a list of qualified candidates to the Minister of Justice.

At all stages of the proceedings, Council assesses each applicant against the qualifications set out in section 7 of the Act, as well as other criteria determined by the Council, as listed below:

- normally 10 years in the practice of law (those with less legal practice may be considered if they have a range of related experience);
- is a member or is qualified to be a member of the Law Society of Yukon;
- the need to have a bench that is demographically representative of the community it serves;
- the scholarship and other attainments of the applicant;
- the experience and maturity of the applicant;
- the amount of experience the candidate has working with Indigenous communities;

- the familiarity of the applicant with, and understanding of, First Nations' concerns;
- the applicant's record in the community; and
- additional criteria based on the needs of the Court or as determined by the Minister to be in the public interest.

Additional criteria identified by the Council are set out in a document entitled Judicial Appointment Criteria, which is provided to each applicant as part of the application package.

Each of the Territorial Court Judges preside in child protection, youth and adult criminal, and small claims court. The Judges travel to communities outside of Whitehorse on a regular court circuit as assigned by the Chief Judge.

In 2025, the Minister of Justice appointed one Territorial Court Judge.

Deputy Judge Appointments

The Council also makes recommendations for appointments of Deputy Judges. These appointments are for a five-year term, subject to reappointment, and Council will consider and make recommendations for the reappointment of Deputy Judges.

Deputy Judges are current, supernumerary, or retired judges of other Canadian courts. They sit in the Yukon as required due to conflict of interest, or shortages due to training or leave. As such, Deputy Judges perform a vital role in providing adequate judicial services in the territory.

In 2025, the Council recommended four Deputy Judge appointments, and three Deputy Judge re-appointments, to the Minister. The Council has decided that in 2026 there will be a review regarding the diversity of the Deputy Judge roster and will consider the results of that review when making future recommendations for appointment.

A list of all Territorial Court Deputy Judges as of December 31, 2025, is annexed as Appendix B.

Justice of the Peace Appointments

The Council is also responsible for recommending the appointment of Justices of the Peace. Yukon Justices of the Peace have evolved as an indispensable and essential part of the Yukon's judicial system. A properly functioning Justice of the Peace program is essential for the proper administration of justice in the territory.

The Territorial Court is committed to providing accessible community-based justice. A strong Justice of the Peace program, which is able to support Justices of the Peace positions in the communities, is important to supporting access to justice outside of the the infrequent visits on court circuit.

The recruitment process for a Justice of the Peace is a community-based process. The circuit Court Judge and/or local Justices of the Peace may identify possible candidates who are encouraged to apply to the Council. As well, the Council may bring the availability of a position to the attention of the local community through advertisements in the local newspaper or through local organizations. Persons interested in an appointment as a Justice of the Peace are able to refer to the Yukon Courts website for information on how to apply.

The process for appointing a Justice of the Peace is similar to the process used to appoint Judges. Applicants first complete an application form and return it to the Council. Many of the qualifications considered in assessing applicants for the position of Territorial Court Judge are also considered when assessing candidates applying to become Justices of the Peace. More specifically, candidates are assessed by the Council on the basis of the application form, training and previous work experience, reputation in the community, and absence of any conflicts of interest, as well as their commitment to ongoing training and education. Appointments are made as the need for a Justice of the Peace in a particular community arises.

Justices of the Peace are divided into two categories: administrative and presiding. Justices of the Peace exercising administrative functions may receive Informations, issue process, conduct small claims mediations and pre-trial conferences and perform other similar duties as determined by the Supervising Judge. A Justice exercising presiding functions has jurisdiction to exercise all the powers conferred on and perform all the duties imposed on a Justice or on a judge by or under an enactment of the Yukon or Canada, subject to the limitations in child protection matters and imposing custodial sentences set out in section 56(2) of the Act.

The duties and responsibilities of each presiding Justice are set out in a letter of authorization issued by the Supervising Judge or Chief Judge. The letter of authorization system allows the Supervising Judge to take account of the individual's training and abilities, as well as the specific needs of a community when assigning responsibilities and duties. It also permits both the Justice of the Peace and the Supervising Judge to identify training needs.

The application form for Justice of the Peace candidates is annexed in Appendix C.

In 2025, there was one recommendation made to the Minister for the appointment of for a new Justice of the Peace, one Justice of the Peace appointment expired due to reaching the age of 75, and one Justice of the Peace resigned.

A list of all Yukon Justices of the Peace as of December 31, 2025, is annexed in Appendix D.

Complaints

The principle of judicial independence requires that Judges and Justices of the Peace must be free to make their decisions based only upon the facts in a particular case and the law applicable to those facts, without outside interference. If a Judge or Justice of the Peace errs in the application of the law or the finding of the facts in a particular matter, the result may be appealed or subject to judicial review by a higher court. The principle of judicial independence, however, does not eliminate judicial accountability. Section 38(1) of the Act provides that Judges are accountable for conduct that is outside the parameters of proper judicial conduct. Any individual who believes a Judge has behaved improperly, neglected their duty or is impaired or diminished in their ability to perform their responsibilities, may lodge a written complaint.

The Act provides for a complaint process in sections 38 through to 44:

38 (1) A person wishing to make a complaint about

- (a) the conduct of a Judge or of a Justice;
- (b) the neglect of duty by a Judge or a Justice; or
- (c) any matter which may lead a person to conclude that the ability or capacity of a Judge or Justice to perform their responsibilities has become substantially impaired or diminished or that they are otherwise unfit for office may file a complaint in writing with the registry of the court.

(2) A person who files a complaint may withdraw that complaint at any time with the consent of the Council.

Routing of complaint

- 39 The registry shall provide a copy of the complaint immediately to the Council, the Chief Judge, and to the Judge or Justice who is the subject of the complaint.

Council to deal with complaint

- 40 Within 30 days of receipt of the complaint, the chair of the Council shall call a meeting to consider the complaint.

Disposition of complaint by Council

As a protection for both the complainant and the Judge or Justice, the Council will not make public names or information that would serve to identify those involved when the complaint is dealt with by the Council.

- 41 (1) On considering the complaint, the Council may
- (a) dismiss the complaint if the Council finds it unnecessary, scandalous, frivolous, vexatious, unfounded, brought in bad faith, or beyond its jurisdiction;
 - (b) refer the complaint to the Chief Judge to be disposed of by the Chief Judge in accordance with section 42;
 - (c) if the Council considers that the complaint is one which should be heard but which it may be able to resolve without referring it to a judicial conduct tribunal, the Council may, with the consent of the Judge or Justice who is the subject of the complaint;
 - (i) give the complainant and the respondent the opportunity to speak to the complaint in the presence of each other; and
 - (ii) dispose of the complaint by way of reprimand or dismiss the complaint; or
 - (d) order an inquiry by a tribunal.
- (2) A Judge or Justice against whom a complaint has been made shall not participate as a member of Council for the purposes of its reviewing a complaint against them.
- (3) The Council may investigate a complaint as it considers advisable to determine the disposition of a complaint under subsection (1).

- (4) If the Council refers a complaint to a judicial conduct tribunal in accordance with paragraph (1)(d), it may recommend the suspension of the Judge or Justice who is the subject of the complaint with or without pay to the tribunal that is to hear the complaint. The tribunal shall determine immediately whether or not the suspension is warranted and, if it considers the suspension is warranted, it shall suspend the Judge or Justice until the complaint is disposed subject to any terms and conditions it considers advisable.

Disposition of complaint by Chief Judge

- 42 The Chief Judge shall rule on every complaint referred to the Chief Judge under paragraph 41(1)(b) within 30 days of receiving the complaint and shall promptly report the disposition of the complaint to the complainant, the Judicial Council, and to the Judge or Justice who was the subject of the complaint.

Review of Chief Judge's ruling

- 43 A complainant who believes that the Chief Judge has erred in the disposition of the complaint may, within 30 days of the receipt of the Chief Judge's ruling, ask the Council to review the complaint and the Council shall deal with the matter in accordance with either paragraph 41(1)(c) or (d).

Judicial conduct tribunal

- 44 A judicial conduct tribunal constituted to hear a matter referred to it by the Council under section 41 of this Act shall be a Deputy Judge of the Supreme Court appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

There were no formal complaints received by the Council in 2025.

Education

Another important function of the Council is to ensure that both Judges and Justices of the Peace have opportunities for ongoing education.

As the role for the Justices of the Peace has evolved, individuals require a higher level of training as a precondition of appointment and to maintain authorization. The Council continues to support the Supervising Judge in their efforts to develop a formal training process for Justices of the Peace. The list of Justice of the Peace training activities for 2025 are annexed as Appendix E.

The Council has also taken steps toward providing information to the public respecting the Council's role in the Yukon Justice system by posting its Annual Report, as well as detailed information concerning the Council and the appointments and complaints process on the Yukon Courts website, www.yukoncourts.ca.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE APPLICATION FORM

YUKON JUSTICE OF THE PEACE PROGRAM

APPOINTMENT PROCESS

Justices of the Peace play an important role in the delivery of court services to their communities. As a lay officer of the court, a Justice of the Peace has a responsibility to perform specific judicial duties based on authorizations granted by the Chief Judge and the Supervising Judge of the Justice of the Peace program.

A Justice of the Peace's conduct must accord to certain acceptable standards which will ensure the maintenance of the position's credibility in the eyes of the public, as well as meeting the requirements of judicial independence inherent in the position.

All Justices of the Peace are trained before taking on responsibility. A strong program of continuing education is offered under the direction of the Supervising Judge of the Justice of the Peace program and the Yukon Justice of the Peace Association.

There is a wide range of responsibilities a Justice of the Peace may undertake. The authorizations a Justice of the Peace acquires depend on the needs in the Justice's community, as well as upon the interests of the Justice of the Peace, the training the Justice of the Peace completes, and the demonstrated skills and abilities of the Justice of the Peace.

Responsibilities could include receiving Informations, issuing court summons and warrants, conducting pre-trial conferences, presiding in docket court, conducting judicial interim release hearings, imposing sentence, and dealing with preliminary applications of various kinds.

Justices of the Peace are also ex officio marriage commissioners.

The Justice of the Peace Appointment Process:

Yukon Justices of the Peace are appointed by the Minister of Justice on the recommendation of the Judicial Council. The Judicial Council welcomes applications from qualified persons seeking appointment as a Justice of the Peace (applicants must be resident of Yukon). Applicants will be considered for recommendation based on the following criteria.

GENERAL QUALIFICATION CRITERIA:

Personal Characteristics:

- A strong sense of fairness
- An ability to listen objectively to all sides of a matter
- Respect for people from all walks of life, regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, age, mental or physical disability, or social standing
- Strong values and ethical standards
- Common sense
- Patience and compassion
- A reputation for honesty and integrity
- Reliability
- Humility and courtesy
- Not involved in activities, claims or actions in conflict with judicial office

Skills and Abilities:

- High level of achievement in past work and volunteer activities
- Experience and/or education relevant to the work of a Justice of the Peace
- Strong communication skills
- Interpersonal skills
- Intellectual ability
- Analytical skills
- Ability to work independently
- Effective time management skills
- Capacity to handle the stress and pressures of the isolation of the judicial role, particularly in small communities

Community Awareness:

- A commitment to public service
- Knowledge of Yukon communities
- Cross-cultural awareness
- Interest in alternative methods of dispute resolution
- Awareness of the social problems facing the courts
- Sensitivity to changing social values

Yukon Justice of the Peace Appointment Process

Step One: Applicant completes attached application
Applicant completes criminal records check through the RCMP
Applicant returns completed application form and criminal records check to:

Territorial Court of Yukon
Chief Judge
Judges' Chambers
2134 2nd Avenue, 4th Floor
Whitehorse, Yukon Y1A 5H6

The completed application form may also be emailed to Judges' Chambers at tera.labar@yukoncourts.ca

Step Two: The Territorial Court judiciary reviews the application to determine whether the applicant meets the qualification criteria and to assess the needs of the applicant's community. A judge interviews the applicant and arranges for reference checks to be completed before making a recommendation to the Judicial Council.

Step Three: Judicial Council reviews recommendations and selects candidates to recommend for appointment to the Minister of Justice

Step Four: Minister of Justice decides appointment

Step Five: Judge swears-in new Justice of the Peace

Questions regarding the application and appointment process may be directed to Tera LaBar, Senior Judges' Assistant: Telephone: (867) 667-5438, Fax: (867) 393-6400 or E-mail: tera.labar@yukoncourts.ca .
